WHEREAS We are desirous and resolved, as soon as may be to meet Our People of Our Province of British Columbia, and to have their advice in Our Legislature;

JOURNALS
OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY
OF THE PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

---

SESSION 1996

---

Tuesday, June 25, 1996

TEN O'CLOCK A.M.

This being the first day of the first meeting of the Thirty-sixth Parliament or Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia for the dispatch of business, pursuant to a Proclamation of the Honourable GARDE B. GARDOM, Q.C., Lieutenant Governor of the Province, dated the 18th day of June 1996, the Members took their seats, after having taken the prescribed oath and having signed the Parliamentary Roll.

The Honourable GARDE B. GARDOM, Q.C., Lieutenant Governor of the Province, having entered the House, took his seat on the Throne.

The Honourable U. Dosanjh (Attorney General) said:

Members of the Legislative Assembly:

I am commanded by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor to announce that he does not see fit to declare the cause of his summoning you at this time and will not do so until you have chosen a Speaker to preside over your Honourable Body. His Honour the Lieutenant Governor hopes to be enabled to declare, during the afternoon, his reason for calling you together.

His Honour was then pleased to retire.

E. George MacMinn, Q.C., Clerk of the House, advised the House that only one candidate had declared his intention to stand for the election of Speaker and, accordingly, Dale Lovick, Member for Nanaimo Electoral District, was declared as the duly elected Speaker. He was then taken out of his place by the Hon. J. MacPhail and Mr. Farrell-Collins and conducted to the Chair and made a statement expressing his grateful thanks to the House for the great honour they had been pleased to confer upon him by electing him to be their Speaker.

The Speaker declared a short recess.

And then the House adjourned at 10.32 a.m.

Tuesday, June 25, 1996

TWO O'CLOCK P.M.

Prayers by Mr. Stevenson.

The Honourable GARDE B. GARDOM, Q.C., Lieutenant Governor of the Province, having entered the House, took his seat on the Throne. The Speaker standing on His Honour's right, then spoke to the following effect:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

The House of Assembly has elected me as their Speaker, though I am but little able to fulfill the important duties thus assigned to me. If, in the performance of those duties, I should at any time fall into error, I pray that the fault be imputed to me and not to the Assembly, whose servant I am, and who, through me, the better to enable them to discharge their duty to the Queen and country, humbly claim all their undoubted rights and privileges, especially that they may have the freedom of speech in their debates, access to Your Honour's person at all seasonable times, and that their proceedings may receive from Your Honour the most favourable interpretation.

The Hon. U. Dosanjh then said:

MR. SPEAKER:

I am commanded by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor to declare to you that he freely confides in the duty and attachment of the House of Assembly to Her Majesty's person and Government, and not doubting that their respective proceedings will be conducted with wisdom, temper and prudence, he grants, and upon all occasions will recognize and allow, their constitutional privileges. I am commanded also to assure you that the Assembly shall have ready access to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor upon all seasonable occasions, and that their proceedings, as well as your words and actions, will constantly receive from him the most favourable construction.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor was then pleased to open the Session by the following gracious Speech:

Honourable Speaker, Members of the Legislature:

It is my great pleasure to address you on the opening of the First Session of the Thirty-sixth Parliament of British Columbia.

Let me take this opportunity to thank those Members of the Legislature who have not returned to this assembly for their years of service to our province.

And to those of you who are returning, or who have been elected for the first time, my congratulations and my thanks as well.

You each have the unique privilege of serving in the Parliament that will set the direction for our province into the next century.

That direction will be different from the one being pursued in much of the rest of Canada. Ottawa is steadily withdrawing funding from health care, education, child care and the social safety net. And many other provinces are responding with deep cuts of their own in those areas.

But in the recent election, British Columbians chose another vision. They elected a government committed to protecting health care and education, by finding savings in other areas.

A government committed as well to creating and protecting jobs.
Making our neighbourhoods safer.
Ensuring a healthy environment for future generations.
Cutting taxes for middle-income earners and small business.
And continuing the work of reducing government debt.

These are the priorities of B.C.'s middle-class working families. And they are working well for British Columbia. Our province is leading Canada with the country's best job-creation record, the strongest economy, the highest credit rating, the lowest debt and the highest environmental rating.

In this session, my government will pursue a vision of a government on the side of working families and the middle class. It will be a highly focused session — focused on the priorities of the people of British Columbia.

And nowhere will that be clearer than in the budget you will receive this week.
It will be B.C.'s second balanced budget in a row. Jobs will be up. The debt will be down.

Health care and education will be protected. And there will be tax relief for small businesses and the middle-class.

FINANCES

People in B.C. are proud to live in a province with the lowest per-capita debt in the country. And they are pleased to see international agencies giving British Columbia the highest credit rating of any province.

But they are still concerned about the level of debt held by the provincial government.

My government is listening and acting on that concern. It will continue to work hard to reduce our province's debt.

And the Finance Minister will elaborate in the upcoming budget speech on how my government will make further progress in this regard.

The challenge is one faced by governments at all levels: provincial, municipal, school and hospital boards alike; and that challenge is to reduce costs and reduce debt while protecting the services that British Columbians rely on.

Working together, B.C. has made impressive fiscal progress. The budget you will receive this week will be the second balanced budget in two years, and includes a reduction in overall debt. My government intends to continue that progress — to ensure our province can rely on a sound, healthy financial foundation.

RELIEF FOR THE MIDDLE CLASS

My government is committed as well to helping middle-class working families make ends meet. Although B.C. residents pay the second-lowest taxes in the country, it's still a struggle for many families to get ahead.

Working people and middle-class families deserve to know their government is doing what it can to make things a little easier on them.

That is why my government has frozen Hydro rates and ICBC car insurance rates.

The budget will include as well a three-year freeze on taxes and a two-year freeze on tuition fees. A two-year tax holiday for new small businesses — the job creation engine of our economy. And the fulfilment of my government's promise of a tax cut for middle-class families, working people and small businesses.

JOBS

The budget will also continue B.C.'s investment in what British Columbians have said is their top economic priority: jobs.

They want to know there are opportunities for themselves — and that there will be opportunities for their children.

Nothing can provide the kind of dignity to individuals, security to families and hope for communities that decent jobs do.

With 34,000 new jobs since December, B.C.'s economy is performing well. But my government knows we can do more. We can do better. And we will.

The coming budget will continue to invest in creating and protecting jobs. It will build on the approach that has been so successful: bringing business, working people, communities and government together to share our perspectives and to cooperate to secure economic prosperity for all.

My government will focus on developing jobs in a broad range of economic sectors in every part of this province — from tourism to energy to mining to advanced technologies and beyond.

FORESTS

This includes a renewal of the commitment made in the address I delivered in April to create and protect thousands of jobs in British Columbia's forests.

For generations, our forests have provided a good living for B.C. workers and their families . . . and a future for B.C. communities. Forestry has been the cornerstone of our economy, a solid base for growth and prosperity across the province.

When neglect and short-sighted mismanagement threatened the future of that industry and sparked division and conflict, my government worked with British Columbians from all walks of life.

Together, they found common ground. And today this vital industry is on the road to long-term sustainability.

Now comes the next step, into a new era. The people of B.C. expect us to work together to get more jobs from trees cut on land owned by the public.

And so my government is working with forest companies and workers to develop a Jobs and Timber Accord, tying access to public timber directly to the creation of new jobs.

My government is also introducing a strategy to greatly expand the value-added sector in B.C. — so that more of the jobs from processing B.C. timber go to B.C. workers.

By increasing job-to-timber ratios to levels comparable to our competitors in Washington and Oregon, my government believes the forest sector can create 21,000 new jobs over the next five years.

FISHERIES

This cooperative approach has paid off in B.C.'s forests. It is the approach my government has brought as well to B.C.'s fisheries.

People in this province have long recognized the Pacific Salmon as more than just a resource. It's part of our history, part of our culture, and part of our identity as British Columbians.

But today the Pacific Salmon fishery is on the brink of collapse. And its dramatic cycle of life, death and rebirth could be broken irrevocably if we fail to act to protect this resource.

That loss would be measured in thousands of fisheries jobs and in the devastation of our many fishing communities . . . but it would also be felt in the very soul of this province.

The people of British Columbia are determined not to let that happen. They have made it clear they want their government to do what it takes to keep our fisheries alive, healthy and sustainable.

And my government has responded with new pollution control rules, investments in sewage treatment, and the cancellation of the Kemano Completion Project because it threatened a key salmon river.

The coming budget will continue to fund innovative community initiatives to protect and restore fish habitat.

My government will also continue to press Ottawa to replace the Mifflin Plan with a plan designed by British Columbians, for British Columbians — a plan that reduces the fleet in a balanced way, and provides adjustment for the workers and communities who are affected. And my government will keep working to convince the federal government to take a firm line with our American neighbours, especially Alaska, over the need for a fair, effective Pacific Salmon Treaty.

Protecting this resource is more than just an economic imperative. It is the defence of our cultural, historic and natural heritage.

ENVIRONMENT

British Columbians are rightly proud of that natural heritage. Our province's tremendous beauty and our rich natural diversity are treasures to be carefully guarded. British Columbia has taken that responsibility very seriously in recent years, and has consistently earned the highest environmental rating in the country.

My government has already taken historic measures to protect the environment, most notably the creation of over 200 new parks and protected wilderness areas. Unique and irreplaceable ecosystems from the Tatshenshini to the Stein Valley, from the Sooke Hills to Height of the Rockies are now safeguarded for all time.

And in the coming months and years, my government will work to complete our system of parks and protected areas, and to enshrine the boundaries of these areas in law.

HEALTH CARE AND EDUCATION

Protecting our quality of life means paying careful attention to our social as well as our natural environment.

British Columbians have made it very clear they place enormous value in B.C.'s health care and education systems. They want these vital programs protected because they are more than simply services.

Health care is in many ways the single most important service that government provides. And education is the key to opportunities for our children: opportunities for jobs for a rewarding career and also opportunities for personal fulfillment and meaningful citizenship.

But protecting health care and education will not be easy. The federal government has cut $435 million from funding to B.C. for these services this year alone. And there are deeper federal cuts coming.

Yet while other provinces are responding with deep cuts of their own, British Columbia has increased funding for health care and education every year for the past five years. And my government is dedicated to continuing to protect these crucial programs.

Faced with the cost pressures of a population that is growing both in size and in age, and sharply diminished support from Ottawa, my government has chosen to find within its own operations the funds needed to protect health care and education.

A series of reductions in administrative overhead, senior management and the number of Crown corporations, agencies and ministries has helped to find the savings needed to protect these services. And, in partnership with B.C.'s doctors and public employees, my government is committed to finding further savings.

With those funds, British Columbia has been able to make important progress by cutting wait lists for heart surgery in half; providing more funding to fight breast cancer and heart disease; and expanding funding for hospitals to keep pace with our growing population.

The budget my government intends to reintroduce will reflect those priorities. It will reflect as well British Columbia's increased investment in our schools, to keep pace with the thousands of new students entering our school system this year. And it will include my government's Guarantee for Youth: offering work experience while keeping education affordable and accessible.

Affordable, by freezing tuition fees while other provinces are raising them by as much as 20 per cent. My government feels strongly that education must not be priced out of the reach of young people.

And accessible, by providing increased funding to help create 7,000 new spaces in our colleges and universities next year — guaranteeing space in our post-secondary institutions for every qualified B.C. student.

The final component of the Guarantee for Youth, work experience, is already achieving results. My government will work hard with its partners in the private sector to ensure even more opportunities for young people in our province's many businesses.

British Columbians expect their government to offer hope for B.C.'s young people. That's a responsibility that my government takes very seriously.

As well, my government has moved, in recent years, to ensure that B.C.'s health care and education systems change to meet the changing needs of British Columbians.

But the need for change must be tempered by the need for stability. My government has shown itself willing to listen when the pace of change outstrips the ability of our system to adapt — and to slow down when necessary.

The goal remains the same: ensuring that services reflect the needs of our many diverse communities, and that British Columbians get the maximum benefit possible from every health care and education dollar.

That is a goal that all British Columbians can support.

ON THE SIDE OF B.C. FAMILIES

And where working families encounter obstacles when they're trying to make ends meet, my government believes it has a responsibility to act.

We expect to soon see the results of an inquiry into recent sharp increases in gasoline prices.

And my government is moving to ensure that injured workers in B.C. continue to have the protection of a sound workers' compensation system.

In response to the serious questions that have emerged in recent years about the Workers' Compensation Board's management and practices, my government will name in the coming weeks a Royal Commission.

That Commission will have a wide-ranging mandate to investigate the concerns many British Columbians have expressed about the Board, and to recommend ways of restoring their confidence in this vital agency.

SAFE COMMUNITIES

People look to their government as well to fight crime and the causes of crime. They want to know their communities will be safe places in which to live and to raise their families.

My government has responded with a range of initiatives to give our province's police and the judicial system the tools they need to combat crime. Among those initiatives are a new provincial homicide unit, new state-of-the-art forensic science facilities, and a strategy to combat teen prostitution.

The upcoming budget will also enhance community policing by allowing for 100 new police officers patrolling our neighbourhoods.

Safer neighbourhoods mean stronger communities ... and a stronger province for all of us.

ABORIGINAL LAND CLAIMS

People in this province have also told my government that they want to see aboriginal land claims dealt with in a fair and open way.

They want to see historic wrongs redressed — so that all British Columbians, in aboriginal communities and throughout our province, can look forward to a future of opportunity, dignity and self-sufficiency.

British Columbia has recently taken an historic step toward that future with the conclusion of an agreement in principle with the Nisga'a people. It is the first step toward B.C.'s first modern-day aboriginal treaty.

And in the months to come, my government will work toward concluding that treaty with the Nisga'a people, and toward similar agreements with First Nations elsewhere in B.C. — while consulting carefully and thoroughly with British Columbians everywhere.

The treaty process holds tremendous promise for British Columbia. Fair agreements can mean greater security and certainty for people, communities and businesses throughout B.C., as well as hope and self-reliance for our province's many aboriginal communities.

A NEW ROLE FOR MLAs

The priorities I have outlined involve many challenges. And British Columbians have sent a clear message that they expect the people they elect to work together to find solutions.

My government has listened. And it intends to introduce a range of reforms to increase the involvement of every member of this Legislature, and ensure they have a strong and effective voice on behalf of their constituents.

As announced before the election, my government will soon table an amendment to the Conflict of Interest Act to allow for the nomination of the Conflict of Interest Commissioner by an all-party committee.

There will also be a new Crown Corporation Committee of the legislature, modeled on the Public Accounts Committee and chaired by a member of the Opposition.

These are only two of many measures that will enhance the effectiveness and influence of all members. British Columbians understand there are genuine differences of policy and philosophy between members of this Legislature. But they also expect them to work together for the common good of this province. And my government is committed to helping to make that happen.

NATIONAL ISSUES

My government will stand up for working people and middle-class families. Indeed, it will stand up for all of British Columbia, in dealing with a federal administration that often seems aloof and removed from the realities of day-to-day life in our province.

My government will continue to press the federal government to act on B.C.'s concerns on fisheries, and to steadily devolve power in this area to our province.

My government will also work to eliminate duplication and overlap between federal and provincial jurisdictions that waste taxpayers' money, and often force citizens and businesses to deal with two bureaucracies instead of one.

Our province needs a strong voice on the national stage. The next four years will be crucial ones for the future of British Columbia and for all of Canada.

B.C. will speak out strongly for a united Canada. But my government will go further.

It believes that unity ultimately cannot be achieved by any constitutional law. And that, while discussions around the constitution may be necessary and important, too often they have distracted the national government from issues that truly matter to Canadians.

Quebecers, like British Columbians and indeed people throughout Canada, want to know their country offers them hope for the future. Economic certainty. Medical treatment if they fall ill. A secure retirement. And opportunities for their children.

No constitution can offer that kind of hope. It has to come from hard work by governments, business, labour, and communities from one end of the country to the other.

That is why British Columbia will be speaking out nationally for a renewed commitment by Ottawa to Medicare. To education. To creating and protecting jobs.

My government has always been ready and willing to work with Ottawa on these issues, and understands there are financial realities to be faced. It has proposed alternatives that would allow the federal government to maintain a strong role in protecting health care, education and social services in Canada.

But most of all, British Columbia has been leading by example ... showing all of Canada how we can build for tomorrow, protect health and education, create jobs, and offer hope for the future.

And my government is doing this by listening to the people of this province, and acting on their priorities.

That is its commitment in this legislative session, and in this Parliament. To listen to British Columbians. To show them they have a government that's on their side.

We are indeed a rich province. B.C. is known worldwide for our valuable forests, our mineral wealth, our energy resources, our sweeping vistas, our quality of life.

But the most precious commodity we have, the one that must be protected and nurtured above all others, is hope.

British Columbia is brimming with promise for the future.

Today, members of the legislature, you begin the work of keeping that promise — the work of building this province of hope, our British Columbia.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor was then pleased to retire.

The Speaker reported that, in order to prevent mistakes, he had obtained a copy of His Honour's Speech.

On the motion for third reading of Bill (No. 6) intituled Income Tax Amendment Act (No. 2), 1996, a debate arose.

Bill (No. 6) intituled Income Tax Amendment Act (No. 2), 1996, was read a third time and passed.

The Speaker delivered his reserved decision as follows:

Honourable Members:

On July 2nd, the Member for Delta South rose in his place and indicated to the Chair that he wished to reserve his right to raise a matter of privilege. On July 9th, he raised his matter of privilege of which he had given notice, namely, that the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations, and other Members on the Government side of the House, had deliberately misled the House with respect to what has been described as a “balanced budget”.

First, with respect to the verbal notice given on July 2nd, I wish to make one or two observations. The purpose of giving verbal notice is to reserve one’s right to raise a matter of privilege by giving notice, without further comment, at the earliest possible opportunity where it may be necessary to make further inquiries. I am satisfied in this case that the Member did give notice at the earliest possible opportunity. However, I feel it is important to examine the content of the notice. The Member was recognized and thereafter proceeded to make a statement. The statement, however, contained argument and charges of wrongdoing, which the Chair considers inappropriate when one rises to reserve the right to raise a matter of privilege. My comments apply equally to the statement by the Member for Vancouver-Fraserview on July 12, 1996.

With respect to the raising of the matter of privilege itself on July 9th, I wish to comment on the process adopted by the Member. The Member was recognized and proceeded to present his case, mixing argument with fact while reading from his written statement. I cautioned the Member to avoid argument and to present facts to the House, and subsequently advised the Member that the Chair had heard sufficient material to consider the case, although I allowed him to file the complete written statement which has been considered in support of his application. I would refer all Honourable Members to the Speaker's decision of July 21, 1993, to be found at page 193 of the Journals, wherein the Chair remarked as follows:

"The Chair wishes to comment briefly on the manner in which the matter of privilege was raised in the House. Our guidelines are stated at p. 36 of Parliamentary Practice in British Columbia (2nd edition) and one of the essential elements required is 'a brief written statement of the matter, which the Member reads to the House'. This statement is intended to inform the House of the facts on which the matter is based, and in addition, any applicable authorities which may be of assistance to the Chair. In this instance, regrettably the Chair could not allow the completion of the statement in that several parts of the statement imported argument and conclusions. The Chair, however, has had the full text of the Honourable Member's statement and has considered all the relevant submissions therein."

It appears to the Chair that the method of presentation in this case was similar to that used on July 21, 1993, and accordingly the decision of the Speaker on that day is particularly relevant. I have adopted those reasons as applicable for the stating of a matter of privilege in this House. The opportunity for argument and debate occurs in the event the Chair finds a prima facie case.

Dealing with the present matter, the Opposition House Leader, upon objection being taken, referred the Chair to two matters of privilege raised in a previous Parliament in which lengthy argument was used during presentation. In those instances, objection was not raised and the Speaker did not actively intervene. It is the view of the Chair that the proper practice was affirmed as a precedent of this House by the Speaker's decision of July 21, 1993, and that decision clearly takes precedence. Improprieties recorded in Hansard on July 11, 1990 and March 11, 1991 which do not comply with the rules of the House cannot set a precedent. For the guidance of Members, there are many examples of privilege being presented for consideration by the Chair in accordance with the correct practices of Parliament. (See B.C. Hansard February 23, 1984; May 1, 1984 and March 19, 1986.)

I want now to turn to the merits of this matter and wish to state that I have examined all the material filed by the Member for Delta South as well as components of Hansard, wherein the views of the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations were expressed during the previous week.

The Member for Delta South alleges that certain Government Members made statements during 1995 and 1996 in which they characterized the budget of that year as being a "balanced budget". Their viewpoints were actively presented in debate — and were actively opposed by Members of the Opposition. The Honourable Member making this application presented Hansard excerpts from 1995, page 1 of the budget speech given by the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations in April 1996 when presenting the budget prior to the election, and he also presented page 1 of the statement by the current Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations when presenting the budget in July of 1996. Finally, he tabled information that the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations made a statement to a member of the press on June 28th, that revenue forecasts would be less than anticipated and stated in the budget. Based upon this evidence, the Member argues that the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations deliberately misled the House in presenting the budget on June 26th, by not advising the House that a forecast indicated that the budget would not be a surplus budget.

When a matter is raised by a Member and characterized as a breach of privilege, the Chair has the duty to consider whether a prima facie case has been made based upon the information provided by the Member, so that the normal business of the House may be set aside to debate the matter. If a prima facie case is found, then the matter is debated and dealt with accordingly. I have before me the form of the motion which the Member tendered, the statement provided by the Member, the Member's oral argument (the first part of the statement) and exhibits attached to the statement. In addition, I have reviewed Hansard for the previous two weeks and examined questions and answers presented in the House on the same issue which may further bear on the case at hand.

It is clear from the material tendered and the Hansard transcript that the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations and the Member for Delta South disagree in their characterization of the budget, a normal function of debate. In addition, the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations and the Member for Delta South disagree with respect to their characterizations of the nature of economic forecasting and its relationship to the budget. In none of the material can I find evidence that the Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations deliberately misled the House. In order to accept the argument of the Member for Delta South, one would have to arrive at the conclusion that the Minister had deliberately misled the House. However, the evidence provided to the Chair, while it indicates a disagreement amongst Members, does not indicate a deliberate intention to mislead. In order to find a prima facie case it would be necessary for the presentation to have included some evidence which would displace the word of an Honourable Member, and that evidence is lacking.

Because of the importance of this matter, the Chair wishes to make some further observations with respect to quoted statements from the Speech from the Throne and from the June 1996 budget, both referred to by the Member for Delta South. The Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations stated in the House that he did not receive confirmed and verified information on budgetary forecasts until the Friday (June 28, 1996) following the Speech from the Throne and the Budget Address. He further stated that he released the information the day he received it. The Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations said in the House on Tuesday, July 2, 1996, and I quote:

“The moment I had reliable information to bring before this House ... I brought it before the public and before this House.... On Friday, I was informed that, as a result of further review, those statements have been verified, and at that moment I made the information public. I stand by that statement because it happens to be the truth.”

It is well established practice that a Member’s word will be accepted in the House — I refer Members to Beauchesne’s 6th edition at citation 494, and I quote:

“494. It has been ruled by Speakers that statements by Members respecting themselves and particularly within their own knowledge must be accepted.”

Unless there is evidence that a Member has deliberately misled the House, a prima facie case cannot be established. The Chair’s examination of the Hansard report and of the Honourable Member’s submission leads to the conclusion that this is a question that falls into the broad category of a dispute as to allegation of facts, which, as stated in Beauchesne’s 4th edition at citation 113, “does not fulfill the conditions of parliamentary privilege.” The allegations against Members of the former Parliament fall into the same category.

Having considered the Honourable Member’s submission, the relevant Hansard reports and precedents, the Chair cannot find, prima facie, that the House was in fact deliberately misled. Therefore, the application must fail.

DALE LOVICK, Speaker

And then the House adjourned at 6.01 p.m.

Section A of Committee of Supply reported progress.

Report to be considered at the next sitting.

Committee to sit again at the next sitting.

The Speaker delivered his reserved opinion as follows:

Honourable Members:

Earlier this morning the Honourable Leader of the Official Opposition sought to raise a matter under Standing Order 35, namely, the information received yesterday with respect to the death of 49 children in the care of the Ministry of Social Services or known to the Ministry of Social Services.

Firstly, with respect to this matter, I wish to acknowledge that the Member gave me written notice of his intention to raise the matter, a courtesy which complies with Practice Recommendation No. 8.

Standing Order 35 provides an opportunity to set aside the normal business of the House for the consideration of a matter of urgency. In his application, the Member indicated that this matter has been discussed on other occasions and the Government House Leader also pointed out that on a number of occasions the matter has been previously discussed. I note from the record that during the last two weeks, the House spent some 15 hours in consideration of the estimates of the Ministry of Social Services and a considerable portion of that time was devoted to discussion of the Gove Commission Report, the Matthew Vaudreuil case and numerous other issues in connection with child deaths. In addition, I note from the record that during the past two days a considerable amount of time was devoted to discussion of the same matters in connection with Bills before the House. I note also that yesterday, the bulk of Question Period was concerned with this issue, and that a Ministerial Statement and responses were received by the House on the issue. This matter is clearly of an on-going nature.

I wish to make it abundantly clear that from the Chair's viewpoint, the subject matter of the application is of a most serious nature and that the Chair views it in that light. As I said at the conclusion of the submissions of the Member and of the Government House Leader, it is, however, not the urgency of the matter but rather the urgency of debate which must be considered in applying the rule.

Erskine May's Parliamentary Practice, 17th Edition, page 365, indicates that the matter must be urgent, of recent occurrence and raised without delay.

"The fact that a grievance is continuing is not sufficient if it is not of recent occurrence."

"The fact that new information has been received regarding a matter that has been continuing for some time does not in itself make the matter one of urgency."

For examples of Speaker's Decisions in this House which have applied the foregoing principle, I would refer Members to the Journals 1982, at page 18, and 1992, at page 194.

Accordingly, Standing Order 35 cannot be applied in this particular case.

DALE LOVICK, Speaker.

And then the House adjourned at 12.20 p.m.

The Hon. A. Petter (Minister of Finance and Corporate Relations and Minister Responsible for Intergovernmental Relations) presented to the Speaker a Message from His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, which read as follows:

GARDE B. GARDOM, Q.C.
Lieutenant Governor

The Lieutenant Governor transmits herewith Bill (No. 18) intituled Supply Act, 1996-97 and recommends the same to the Legislative Assembly.

*Government House,
August 1, 1996.*

Bill introduced and read a first time.

The Speaker made the following statement:

Honourable Members:

This House now has before it the Supply Act, 1996-97 which has been introduced and read a first time. The basic question which the Chair has had to consider is whether or not this Bill can indeed be advanced more than one stage at this time.

An examination of the Journals and Hansard of this House discloses various and, frankly, somewhat inconsistent procedures surrounding introduction and passage of the Supply Act. Because of the importance of this process, and for the guidance of the House, the Chair wishes to make some observations relating to the closing of Estimates and the final Supply Act.

Honourable Members will be aware that the final Supply Act is unique in its nature, being founded on the financial resolutions which are passed by this House immediately upon completion of the Estimates process. The first of those resolutions is the motion that the Resolutions from the Committee of Supply be now received, taken as read and agreed to. Upon passage of this motion, a second motion is moved that there be granted from and out of the consolidated revenue fund the amounts as authorized by the resolutions passed in the Committee of Supply which include the amounts authorized by earlier interim Supply Acts.

Immediately following the acceptance by the House of the two resolutions above mentioned, the Supply Act itself is introduced to the House for first reading. At this point it must be emphasized that the final Supply Act is an administrative act only, confirming and appropriating the grants previously agreed to by the motions above described. This House has spoken clearly on this matter and I refer Honourable Members to the debates of this House to be found in Hansard of July 26 and 27, 1993.

The general rule applicable to bills requiring three readings on different days does not apply to the final Supply Act for the reason that this Act is squarely founded upon resolutions from the Committee of Supply to which the House has previously agreed. In this regard, I refer Honourable Members to Erskine May's Parliamentary Practice, 17th edition, at page 771 and I quote from this authority, in part, as follows:

“All grants of supply voted by the Committee of Supply in respect of whatever estimate ... after being covered by grants of ways and means, require to be authorized by legislation. It will be remembered that such bills are exempt from the operation of the ‘Ten o’clock rule’ and that the practice of the House which forbids the transaction of more than one stage of financial business on the same day is so far relaxed in their case as to allow the committee and subsequent stages to be taken on the same day.”

In light of the authorities quoted, it is the Chair's view, that quite apart from the operation of Standing Order 81, the final Supply Act, being only an administrative act founded on resolutions passed by the House, may be advanced one or more stages in one day. The Chair would also observe that the unique wording of our Standing Order 81 permits a bill to be read twice or thrice, or advanced two or more stages in one day on “urgent or extraordinary occasions”. It could be logically argued that the final Supply Act is a unique or extraordinary Bill, being founded on resolutions already agreed to by the House, and as such this would permit the Supply Act to qualify for three readings on one day under the authority of Standing Order 81. In light of the findings stated above, it becomes unnecessary to make this determination.

DALE LOVICK, Speaker

The Speaker declared a short recess for distribution of the Bill.

Bill (No. 18) was read a second time.

On the motion of the Hon. A. Petter, Bill (No. 18) was referred to Committee of the Whole House to be considered forthwith.

The Speaker may give notice that he is so satisfied or has been so advised and thereupon the House shall meet at the time stated in such notice, and, as the case may be, may transact its business as if it has been duly adjourned to that time and date; and
